Blaze – Guardian of the Monarchs by Adele Gaddes

Blaze is a ‘scarecrow’ made by three children (Jessica, Luke and Ben) to guard the Monarch Butterflies from predators in their garden. Blaze protects the Monarch through all stages of its life cycle. When a whole lifecycle is complete the children know their work is done, and the Monarchs are now safe in the garden.

This book has brought a FUN way to highlight the plight of the Monarch Butterfly.

Adele Gaddes

Adele Gaddes has grown many swan plants in her garden on the family farm in the Waikato, New Zealand. She has been photographing and watching the Monarch for many years and is concerned about the decline of numbers worldwide.

“A charming and factually correct book about the monarch”

Jacqui Knight, Founding Trustee
Monarch Butterfly NZ Trust

Educational

Great resource for the classroom and home school environment.

Environmental

Understand how you can make a difference to save the Monarch.

Creativity

The children come up with their own solution to a problem they identify.
